New Conservative Union Formed; Birchers Curbed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new-born American Conservative Union has set up a headquarters near the Capitol, approved a $400,000 first-year budget, barred Birch Society members from its top command, and set for itself this goal:

"We hope to build the greatest in-depth conservative voice and action this country has seen, and on a totally responsible basis."

The spokesman, ACU Chairman Donald Bruce, former Republican congressman from Indiana, also told an interviewer that the quietly organized new political movement intends to:

Keep the Republican party on the right-wing course it chose in San Francisco last July, despite the election disaster to its nominee, Barry Goldwater.

Enlist conservative-minded scholars and writers to develop — and disseminate — policies and programs for the GOP that will attract what Bruce calls the "ideologically uncommitted majority" of voters who turned away from Goldwater.

Engage in politics "actively and openly," Bruce said, to get conservative Republicans nominated and elected, by providing all possible help short of cash contributions.

Lobby in Congress for conservative causes. Bruce, for instance, oppose direct federal aid to education, the nuclear test ban treaty, urban renewal, and the one-man one-vote reapportionment rule.

From a nucleus of about 70 organizers who met Dec. 19 at a Washington Hotel in a closed, unpublicized meeting, the ACU has taken form quickly and geared itself for national growth.

The vice chairman is Rep. John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio; the secretary is Robert E. Bauman, national chairman of Young Americans for Freedom, which was the outgrowth of the 1960 "Youth for Goldwater for Vice President" group; the treasurer is Frank S. Meyer, an editor of the conservative monthly, National Review.

Can ACU prevent a Republican swing back to a moderate-liberal party stance?

"That is our purpose," said Bruce. "What if Republicans like Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Wilham W. Scranton of Pennsylvania recapture the GOP? Would ACU join the swing, or would it favor a third party?"

"We would not swing. And under any foreseeable circumstances we are vigorously opposed to a third party. We believe in building the strongest second party possible. A third party would only splinter the second party and strengthen the whole liberal left."

Alabama Guard May Protect Rights March

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — President Johnson says he will call out the Alabama National Guard to protect a civil rights march from Selma to Montgomery if Gov. George C. Wallace is unable or unwilling to do so.

The President told newsmen of his decision at the White House Thursday night shortly after Wallace appealed for federal civil assistance to help protect a massive march designed to dramatize a Negro voter drive.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., leader of a nine-week Negro voter drive in Alabama, said the 50-mile highway pilgrimage will start at noon Sunday.

A white segregationist, former Mayor Art Hanes of Birmingham, announced today he was canceling plans for a reverse march from Montgomery to Selma. Hanes said he would bow to Wallace's appeal for citizens to stay away from scenes of tension.

The President said Wallace had a National Guard force of more than 10,000 he could call into service to maintain law and order during the five-day march.

The governor, in appealing for federal civil help, estimated it would take 6,171 men to provide maximum security for the march. Johnson said the federal

Old Man Winter To Die Bitter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The winter season got ready today to end its mostly unpleasant three-month stand of bitter weather and the cheerers were for its leaving and not for its performances.

For winter still was kicking up storms and blowing cold air across wide areas from the Rockies to the Appalachians and into parts of the Southland. However, snow has tapered off in most areas from Minnesota to the eastern Great Lakes.

The calendar shows that spring arrives officially at 3:05 p.m. (Eastern Standard Time) Saturday. But four feet of snow on the ground and drifts ranging up to 25 feet in some parts of the storm-battered Midwest belied the calendar.

Subzero cold, along with the stiff winds and a heavy snow covering, made the last full day of winter look and feel like mid-winter in the northern and central Rockies eastward into the northern Midwest. Below-zero readings were reported in at least 11 states — Montana, Colorado, Wyoming, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa and Kansas. One of the lowest marks was 17 below zero at Laramie, Wyo. It was 78 at Key West, Fla.

Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa were the hardest hit by the blizzards. Hundreds of schools remained closed and roads in many areas were blocked by huge drifts. Eight deaths were attributed to the stormy weather, including three in Minnesota.

Spring Is Here; Solon Doffs His Hairpiece

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a two-month tryout, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., has abandoned his hairpiece. "Now that spring is here, I don't need the extra covering any more," McGovern, 42, said today.

McGovern, asked whether he still had the hairpiece, nodded affirmatively and added: "I'll keep it around. Who knows, I might drag it out again when it gets cold next winter."

Soviet Spaceship Lands OK

Gemini Practice Run Due Today

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Final practice run of the first manned Gemini two-man space flight starts today with tracking stations all over the world taking part.

Astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young completed their last full-scale training mission Thursday.

Space officials were studying weather charts today after a long-range forecast for Tuesday, day of the launch, called for low overhead clouds.

Tracking stations encircle the world along the path the Gemini spacecraft will travel during its three orbits. The exercise starts at seven hours before launch and runs through the entire countdown including the 4-hour and 32-minute flight.

Realism is added by having the astronauts take part in a simulated spacecraft for part of the exercise.

Each station, starting with

Bermuda, pretends the spacecraft comes into their area of coverage. The Grand Canary Island off the coast of North Africa is next and so on around to Australia, Hawaii, Mexico, and back to the United States.

Each station has a specific task assigned to it when the spacecraft passes overhead. This information is relayed back to Cape Kennedy.

Recovery ships sailing about 70 miles northeast of Grand

Turk, where the astronauts are expected to land, also tune in on the exercise.

Grissom, an Air Force major and Young, a Navy lieutenant commander, ran through the mission profile Thursday with emphasis on launching; maneuvering — using the small jet engines, which will give the spacecraft a maneuverability not available before in space-ships; and re-entry.

2 Cosmonauts' 24-Hour Orbit Is Spectacular

MOSCOW (AP) — Spaceship Voskhod 2 landed safely today west of the Ural Mountains after a spectacular 24-hour orbit during which one of the two cosmonauts aboard frolicked outside the craft. There were indications that something went wrong in the landing process.

An announcement by Tass, the Soviet news agency, that the pilot had steered the spaceship to a landing ended hours of mystery and official silence on the Voskhod's fate. Tass said both cosmonauts were well.

The time the Voskhod was aloft indicated it had completed 17 orbits and was on its 18th when it landed.

The exploit of Col. Pavel Belyayev and Lt. Col. Alexei Leonov meant another big step toward travel to the moon. It was Leonov who ventured outside the craft and floated 10 minutes in the void, proving men could work there to assemble space platforms for shots to the moon.

The spaceship landed at 12:02 p.m. — 4:02 a.m. EST — near Perm, west of the Ural Mountains and 725 miles northeast of Moscow. This is far north of the usual landing spot for Soviet spaceships.

This fact and the character of radio signals toward the end of the flight suggested to the Bochum Space Observatory in West Germany that the landing process was irregular, a Bochum spokesman said.

The Perm area is on the western slopes of the Ural Mountains. Half the area is forested and unfit for a landing, but there is a plain.

Whatever the success of the landing, Tass said Belyayev and Leonov had carried out their experiment successfully.

The landing of the two cosmonauts inside their spaceship followed the pattern of the Voskhod 1, the first multimanned Soviet capsule named with the Russian word for sunrise. It spent 24 hours in orbit last Oct. 12-13.

Voskhod 2 was up 26 hours. It had time to complete 17 orbits and be in its 18th when it landed.

Earlier Soviet space flights in the Voskhod series of capsules required the cosmonauts to parachute from the craft. But the Voskhod series is equipped for soft landings on retroactive jets, a report on Voskhod 1 said.

The Tass announcement of the landing said:

"Their program of scientific experiments was carried out in full."

"A complex experiment was made successfully during the flight, opening a new stage in man's conquest of space: a cosmonaut dressed in a special space suit with an autonomous life support system floated freely in outer space."

"The data received during the flight of Voskhod 2 are being tabulated and analyzed."

The West German space observatory in Bochum said Soviet ground stations at 2:50 a.m. (EST) instructed Voskhod's

Officers, Trustees Named By Community Action Panel

The Pickaway County Community Action Organization moved a step closer to becoming a working unit last night with the adoption of a constitution and the naming of officers and trustees.

Initial steps to establish the organization were taken here several weeks ago. Its purpose is to provide stimulation and incentive for urban and rural communities to mobilize their resources in efforts to combat poverty through community action programs.

The Community Action panel will seek to guide and carry out local programs that will be supported 10 per cent or more locally and up to 90 per cent financially by the federal government under the Economic opportunity Act of 1964.

Additional business last night centered on the verification of an organization membership list and a detailed discussion of two specific programs that will be followed on the local level. The session was conducted at Circleville High School, with 24 city - county representatives taking part.

EDWARD G. GRIGG, manager of General Electric's Circleville Lamp plant, was named president. George McDowell, superintendent of county schools, will serve as vice president. Fritz Jacobs, superintendent of city schools, will handle secretary duties, and Robert Wood, Pickaway County treasurer, was named treasurer.

Approved as institutional and individual trustees were: Everett Beers (Ashville Kiwanis), Alden D. Bray, Jack Chilton (Area Chamber of Commerce), Wendall Evans (farmer), Edward G. Grigg, G. Nide Lawson, R. C. Palm, Paul Smallwood and Robert Waverling.

Serving as public office trustees are Judson Beougher, county Board of Education; R. L. Brehrer Jr., City Board of Education; Bruce Conner, Farmers Home Administration; Ben H. Gordon, Circleville Mayor; David Crawford, City Council; Wayne Hines, County Commissioner; Fritz Jacobs, superintendent of city schools; George McDowell, superintendent of county schools; Richard Snouffer, Circleville High School principal; and Robert Wood, county treasurer.

Trustees representing the people to be served are The Rev. Donald Brown, Circleville Bible College; Guy Cline, juvenile - probate judge; Mrs. Jeanne Hedges, Well-

Salvation Army's Combo Swings in Beatnik Den

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A swinging new combo performs Monday nights at the "Coffee and Confusion" coffee house in the San Francisco Bohemia of North Beach.

The setting is a familiar swirl of cigarette smoke, haggard beards, coffee-stained jeans and faces seeking to look bored but questing.

The swing combo mounts the bare, wooden stage and in smooth, mellow tones with an insistent, heavy beat begins to sing its own words to the folk song "Michael, Row the Boat Ashore."

"Jesus died on Calvary — Hallelujah!"

"Jesus died on Calvary — Hallelujah!"

The performers are the "Salvation Singers," three men and a woman in their 20s — cadets preparing for careers as Salvation Army officers.

Since their debut last fall, they have been playing North Beach with increasing reception, their Gospel choruses often joined by self-professed beatniks who might ask later, "Who's God?"

"I haven't found a beatnik who believes in God — at least they say they don't," remarked Joe Noland of Santa Ana, Calif.

Some persons show surprise that they sing Gospel messages to coffee-house beatniks and present crowd-drawing concerts on North Beach corners.

"They don't expect Christians to be able to do anything,"

Spring Is Here; Solon Doffs His Hairpiece

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a two-month tryout, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., has abandoned his hairpiece. "Now that spring is here, I don't need the extra covering any more," McGovern, 42, said today.

McGovern, asked whether he still had the hairpiece, nodded affirmatively and added: "I'll keep it around. Who knows, I might drag it out again when it gets cold next winter."

shrugged Doris Tobin of San Francisco, vocalist and ukulele player.

Salvation Army Capt. James Goode says the folk swingers are in harmony with the army's more traditional brass bands.

"And the brass band could never crack North Beach," he said. "The people are too sophisticated."

But even apparent sophistication can melt, said guitar player Ron Bowden of Great Falls, Mont.

"After one performance," he recalled, "the next folk singer on stage looked around and said, 'Man, how can I follow that? All I know are dirty songs.'"

"They don't realize they're getting a sermon, but they are," Noland added. "My goal is to get the beatniks to admit they don't know what they're looking for. They have no philosophy — they admit it."

Fourth member of the group is Cliff Lloyd of Seattle, Wash.

Leukemia Victim's Watermelon Taste Is Being Satisfied

SHAWSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Five-year-old Bryan Akers, a leukemia victim doctors give six months to live, has had a craving for watermelon since doctors put him on a drug six months ago.

His parents and relatives were unable to find any melons in stores around this little western Virginia community.

News stories this week about Bryan have brought gift melons that are overflowing the family trailer house, Bryan's mother, Mrs. Carl Akers, says a truckload of watermelons is coming from the Miami, Fla., Chamber of Commerce.

"Bryan just doesn't know what to say," Mrs. Akers related Thursday night. "He started eating watermelon at 10 this morning and hasn't taken a nap all day."

Police Guard Pupils Back For School

CLEVELAND (AP) — About half of the 3,400 pupils enrolled at Collinwood High School went back to classes today under a heavy police guard posted to prevent outbreaks of racial street fighting which caused the school to close Thursday.

The police, numbering nearly 200 and including mounted troops arrested at least seven boys and took weapons away from some of them.

At one time a crowd of about 100 gathered, but mounted police succeeded in dispersing it before classes started. Pupils entered in an orderly manner.

Two boys received minor injuries Thursday when violence flared out of tension which had been building up between white and Negro pupils at the junior-senior high school on the East Side. Collinwood has an estimated 10 to 20 per cent Negro enrollment.

"Everything is under control, and it appears as if those who stayed away did so because of confusion and fear," John Lee, Collinwood principal, said as classes got under way today.

Superintendent Paul Briggs praised the youngsters who attended, telling them: "This has always been a fine school."

Thursday night, in calling on parents to help restore racial peace, Briggs assigned them a share of blame for the outbreaks of fighting.

Bad Check Writer Ordered To Wear Reminder Bracelet

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — A convicted writer of bad checks was sentenced Thursday to wear the symbolic "Key to San Quentin" on a bracelet around his right wrist.

Luther Dale Dillon, 39, of Woodland, who has a long history of check charges and other nonviolent crimes, was sentenced to a six-month jail term and to wear the key bracelet for the remainder of a three-year suspended state prison sentence.

Judge Robert O. Carter of Stanislaus County Superior Court said he believes the key will be a symbol of how close Dillon is to state prison. The judge said he will pay for the bracelet.

"It's just a reminder to him about drinking and writing checks," Judge Carter said.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — President Sukarno announced today the Indonesian government is taking over the management of three foreign oil companies, two American and one Dutch.

The companies affected are the U.S.-owned Stanvac and Caltex Oil companies and Dutch Shell. Another American company, Panamerican, also operates in Indonesia but does only prospecting for new oil fields.

10 Years Hence--Rocket to Tokyo in 30 Minutes

HAMILTON Air Force Base, Calif. (AP) — "A ticket to Tokyo," you'll say 10 years from now — and rocket there in 30 minutes. Wild dream? Read on.

Supersonic aircraft flying at 2,000 to 5,000 miles an hour are much too slow for one of the nation's top Air Force missilemen, Maj. Gen. Andrew R. Lilli.

"I say take the big step — skip the supersonic aircraft and go directly to missile transport," declared Lilli, commander of the 28th Region, North American Air Defense Command.

Interviewed at his headquarters, Lilli stressed that he is discussing possibilities rather than policies.

Within a decade, he says, men and material could be rocketed safely to any spot on the globe — or around the world — in less than an hour. The briefest round-the-world trip would utilize counter rotation of the earth.

Impossible? "Not at all," asserts the general. But his timetable, he emphasizes, depends on the size and direction of the national effort. Aiming toward development of supersonic planes will simply postpone rocket transport a few years, according to Lilli.

Air Force Gen. Bernard A. Schriever agrees the day will come "when we will be flying missiles over the country as we do jet planes today," Schriever heads the Air Force Systems Command at Dayton, Ohio.

Two basic barriers to rocket travel—excessive gravity forces and noise—already have been licked, Lilli said. "And American genius and industry can do the rest."

Technological fallout from the aerospace program will accelerate development of missile transport, Lilli believes.

Extolling what he describes as the phenomenal reliability and accuracy of modern U.S.

missiles and rocket launchings, Lilli insists that they readily can be developed for troop and freight transport, then civilian travel.

He points to a concept developed by Philip Bono and colleagues of the Douglas Aircraft Co. Bono is project manager of the Douglas missile and space systems division's advanced launch vehicle section.

The Bono rocket ship would take off and land vertically at spaceports no larger than present airfields. It would accelerate relatively slowly and gently, then streak to its destination at more than 17,000 miles an hour.

The cross - country earth would be so far above the sea that sonic boom problems would be eliminated.

Increasing speed, declares the general, is the key to progress of this nation and the world.

"Every step we take in this direction helps make and keep America strong," he says.

Nasser Is Still Top Man Despite Arab World Split

CAIRO (AP) — The Arab world appears to be split wide open over U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser's demands for all-out sanctions against West Germany.

But Nasser still seems the main leader of the Arab world, admired, respected or feared by the heads of the other 12 Arab states.

The Arab foreign ministers' meeting last weekend was torn by dissension over the drastic retaliatory measures against Bonn that Nasser demanded, Nasser obviously failed to rally the Arab world solidly behind him.

But his prestige does not appear to have been visibly damaged.

'Ben-Hur' Goes to Nigeria

Heston on Hand
For 'Premier'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A movie premiere is a movie premiere, whether it's in Beverly Hills, Calif., or Lagos, Nigeria.

That's the conclusion of Charlton Heston, just returned from the opening of "Ben-Hur" in that African capital.

Why is "Ben-Hur" premiering in Nigeria five years after Heston won his Oscar for it? The answer concerns movie economics.

"Until now the picture hadn't opened anywhere in Africa, or in South America or Mexico," the actor explained. "The reason is that these countries are accustomed to buying films for $40, and MGM isn't about to sell a big attraction like 'Ben-Hur' for a small amount."

The Nigerian premier came about because of the request of the new nation's president, who wanted the film for a "command performance" for charity.

"He had seen 'Ben-Hur' in London and later in Washington," said Heston. "He felt that it reflected the aims and ideals of his country and so he asked for it. When he invited me to attend, the State Department and the United States Information Agency got into the act and wanted me to make some appearances, too."

They told me Nigeria would be an easy assignment and added, "How would you like to go to Ghana and get some rocks thrown at you?" I was willing to take the risk, but shortly before I was to leave, our ambassador was withdrawn. So the officials didn't think it was the right time for me to visit Ghana."

Heston said he did indeed find the Nigerians friendly. A former British colony with 55 million inhabitants, the country is progressive and bustling, he reported.

Introduction Of Assembly Bills Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Introduction of a bill involving the introduction of bills has just about rounded out the sweeping range of proposals now before the Ohio Legislature.

Rep. Ralph Regula, R-Stark and three cosponsors offered a measure Thursday requiring lawmakers who seek new programs or state agencies to say in advance how much they would cost.

The bill would require sponsors of such legislation to attach to their bills "fiscal notes that would explain the total dollar effect on the state or its affected political subdivisions."

Nearly 800 bills covering virtually every subject have now been introduced in the general assembly, which would up its ninth week of work Thursday.

House Speaker Roger W. Cloud, R-Logan, has announced a public hearing by the rules committee Tuesday on the Democratic plan to reapportion the Ohio House through use of fractional votes.

Also scheduled, in addition to the daily floor sessions, are further hearings on legislation to ban racial discrimination in housing and to increase the state sales tax from three to four per cent for schools.

Two administration-backed measures designed to give the state a windfall estimated at more than $500,000 sailed through the Senate Thursday without opposition. The measures clear the way for the state to cancel uncashed checks issued as long ago as 1948.

Three bills received House approval and were sent to the Senate, they would require county commissioners to meet 50 times a year, authorize counties to participate in federal programs, and name U. S. 32 in Lawrence County, the "T. Jenkins Memorial Highway" in honor of the late 10th District congressman.

Two Stark County legislators offered a new approach to the problem of extending school bus transportation to pupils of private and parochial schools.

Sen. Jim Thorpe, R-Stark, and Bernice K. MacKenzie, D-Stark, offered in their respective chambers a resolution asking a study on the feasibility of a new state agency to supervise a school bus program "for all students."

6 Men Are Accused In Theft of TV Sets

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The FBI has climaxed a 1½-year investigation of the theft of 13 television sets from a railroad car here by arresting three young Columbus men and charging three other men.

Arrested here Thursday were Albert Costello Culver, 22, and Robert Gene Albert and Frank Panell, both 19. The three men charged in the case Thursday all are serving prison sentences on other convictions.

Rough Ceylon Political Drive Near Finale

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — The roughest political campaign in Ceylon's history is drawing to a close and has torn holes in the national fabric that may be difficult to mend.

Bitterly antagonistic political forces have taken seemingly irreconcilable positions in frantic efforts to support or kill off a re-election bid by leftist-backed Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike, the world's only woman prime minister.

Both sides agree the outcome of next Monday's parliamentary election will have momentous effect on Ceylon's future.

Mrs. Bandaranaike campaigned on a pledge to make Ceylon a Socialist state free from "Western imperialist influence" and the "pernicious features of Western culture."

Opposition parties charge victory for her means the end of parliamentary democracy in Ceylon and that leftists now supporting her would push her aside and capture the government.

Most of this island nation's leading public figures wear political bruises collected in the campaign. Not even disc jockeys could escape.

They drew government fire when a radio speech by Mrs. Bandaranaike was followed by a playing of Beethoven's "Funeral March." When "The Donkey Serenade" was used as a musical fill-in after a Cabinet minister's speech, some disc jockeys were fired by state-owned Radio Ceylon.

Mrs. Bandaranaike, a ma-tronly 49-year-old woman with a husky voice, became prime minister five years ago, after a Buddhist monk assassinated her husband, Solomon Bandaranaike.

Her shaky government fell Dec. 3 when Parliament defeated her attempt to nationalize Ceylon's largest newspaper publishing group, The Associated Newspapers.

She now offers Ceylon's 4.7 million registered voters a leftist-dominated coalition of her Socialist Freedom party and the Marxist Social Equality party.

The opposition charges that of the 100 parliamentary candidates she has nominated, 75 are Marxists in ideology. The House has 151 members, 145 elected and six appointed.

Mrs. Bandaranaike and Communist party officials agreed not to fight each other, and she speaks on behalf of some Red candidates. This alarms Buddhist monks, who fear a leftist-dominated government would attack Buddhism, majority religion of Ceylon's 11 millions. So the Buddhists entered politics and campaign against Mrs. Bandaranaike, despite a government ban on processions by monks.

Opposition forces charge the prime minister is opening Ceylon to Communist Chinese infiltration, and that Peking's agents are active throughout the island.

Ceylon's deteriorating economic position also is playing a big role in the campaign.

About a million Ceylonese — one-third of the work force — are unemployed or work only part time.

Fooled Again

Brazzaville was the setting for a 1954 conference through which Gen. de Gaulle sought to convert the moribund French empire into an association of independent nations joined in economic, cultural and political harmony.

The French Union that emerged succeeded remarkably well, for a time. France was able to count on its former colonies for favored tariff treatment. Through associate membership in the Common Market they, in turn, enjoyed economic advantages in European markets. The mother country and her former colonies seldom parted on issues before the United Nations.

The same Brazzaville, where this dream had its inception, is now the scene of Red China's deepest penetration into West Africa. There, communist subversion has succeeded in overthrowing the French Congo government and replacing it with a regime that looks to Peking for leadership.

Gen. de Gaulle had a similar dream for converting France's colonial holdings in Indochina into a fraternal partnership. But Ho Chi Minh, a graduate of the Peking school of revolutionary tactics, had other ideas, shared if not inspired by Red China, with the result that France was given the boot.

France's experience with Algeria should have been no less disillusioning. The Constantine Plan for mutual development has turned into a one-way channel of French aid while the Algerian Revolutionary Movement carries the torch of Peking.

How, regardless of his recent overtures, Gen. De Gaulle can expect to get any better treatment at the hands of Red China defies understanding. As recently as July 28 the general was convinced that "so long as the free world is faced with the Soviet bloc it will be essential for the people on both sides of the ocean, if they wish to defend themselves, to be linked together to do so."

Substitute Red China for the Soviet bloc and the necessity becomes even greater.

Confessions of Man on Wagon

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — An interesting thing happened to me recently. I went on the wagon.

It seems like it was only yesterday, although actually it was 10 weeks, 5 days, 12 hours and 37 minutes ago that I had my last drink.

It wasn't my idea. It was the doctor's. He decided that in all fairness to my life insurance company I should take off 30 pounds.

"You'll also have to take that tiger out of your tank," he said. "You'll lose weight a lot more quickly if you go on a liquor-free diet."

"You mean a free liquor diet, don't you, doc?" I asked hopefully.

"No, you heard me the first time," he said. "No bourbon until you take off 30 pounds. No vodka, gin, beer, wine or rum either. As a matter of fact, if you keep any hair tonic in your medicine cabinet, you might throw that away, too."

What is it like to go on the wagon and cut out the social drinking that seems to be so much a part of our city civilization?

Well, there are advantages and disadvantages, such as:

You miss a lot of interesting gossip. People become somewhat chary of telling their innermost secrets to someone they know is cold sober.

That morning-after taste disappears.

You sleep better and longer. Blues go away.

You get more work done at the office.

Exercise doesn't seem so dreadful. You find you'd actually rather walk than take a cab.

Everything is brighter and more colorful and you notice things you didn't before — buds on trees, smiles on subway faces, children playing.

Now you have time to do all the things you wanted to do, such as writing letters to your congressman or reading more good books — if someone would just write a few worth reading.

Your bottle-scarred companions of yore begin to avoid you, for fear that you'll try to corrupt them into leading a better life. They complain you aren't as much fun as you used to be. Surprisingly, you miss them very little.

All in all, your digestion improves, your worries seem smaller, and you suddenly realize that you're getting a bigger kick out of life than you can remember getting for a long, long time.

You decide that everybody, really, ought to go on the wagon — at least once in his life. But that's up to him.

You're Telling Me!

The old West German town of Hamelin is again being plagued with rats and, as it was back in 1284, and the burg has again hired a fellow to get rid of 'em. However, this time he's a professional exterminator and he'll use pesticides, leaving (the townfolk hope) his musical instruments at home.

You'll recall the 13th century rat eradicator, a piper, played a tune which drove the varmints so batty they jumped into the Weser River and drowned.

Then the town fathers reneged on paying him. Those two-bit politicians thought they were being smart by refusing to divvy up even a thin dime.

So what does the ridder of rodents do but play another tune? This time his music was so enchanting the little kids of Hamelin must have thought he was the Good Humor man, for they took off after him in droves.

The piper and all the children walked right into a hill and vanished. There was no school in Hamelin the next day — or during the next decade.

No one ever did find out what happened to the Hamelin half-pints. Since it all happened 681 years ago, it's kind of doubtful if any new clues will now be uncovered.

It'll be interesting to see how successful the 1965 rat eradicator will be. But you can be sure the Hameliners won't pay him off with a phony check. In fact, we wouldn't be surprised but what he'll be paid in advance.

Anchorage, Alaska, is one of the fastest growing cities in the U. S., the census shows. Despite its name it certainly isn't staying put.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

RICHMOND barrister John G. May, Jr., tells of a distinguished lawyer whose young son had just entered practice with him. The elder gentleman's summation to a jury was very elegant and flowery, and covered all the facts, but it was not exactly a model of lucidity. Actually, it left the jury obviously bewildered. "Pop," whispered the son, "I don't think the jury dug you." "Precisely," nodded the father. "If they did, we're lost!"

Old employees of publisher Horace Liveri, remember the day he called a sudden editorial meeting to announce, "This gentleman here has come up with some brand new information about Mark Twain that will be the sensation of the new literary season." The discoverer, however, ruined everything by jumping up, poking a finger in Liveri's face, and shouting, "I'll bet you're not aware that Mark Twain was really Lewis Carroll!"

Broker Kadison arrived at his office with a bandage on his head and his arm in a sling. "My wife," he explained sadly, "drives like lightning." "You mean she breaks the speed laws?" asked an associate. "No," said Kadison. "I mean she's always hitting the trees on the lawn."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Doctors, diseases and drugs can always be depended upon to rescue a dull dinner party from boredom.

Unexpressed anger sometimes lie dormant within the framework of the valuable doctor-patient relationship. In open forum on such special occasions, without any given signal, some of these hostilities are expressed with "wide open confidences."

The doctor, his attitudes, his method of treatment and his fees can always be depended upon for lively conversation.

There was even a time when hands were rubbed in sheer delight at the possibility that the physician might be made extinct by the antibiotics.

Much of the distortion of the relationship between doctor and patient that provokes such lively discussion is based on their poor communication.

Doctors and patients use a simple language as a basis for communication; yet each in essence hears a different language. Often the patient listens, but hears confused messages because of inner tensions and anxieties about illness.

Long after a disease has been cured and health has been returned, the physician continues to be identified with painful symptoms, complaints and the financial burdens of long illnesses.

Too often the patient's general resentment to prolonged illness is associated with physicians, with nurses and with hospitals whom they feel have parasitically thrived on their misfortune.

This, then, becomes the unfortunate end result of a relationship with health forces that should instead stand as a testimonial of man's dedication to man.

In an excellent treatise on the Psychology of Medical Practice, Dr. Marc H. Hollender of Syracuse University wisely states, "Usually the answer is so obvious that it automatically follows. At times, however, it may be known by the patient, but either is not stated or deliberately withheld. At still other times, it may be unknown to the patient himself."

Dr. Hollender continues by stating that there are two general reasons why the patient calls the doctor. The first is the patient's urgent need for relief of pain. The second reason is the patient's need for emotional support using the doctor "as a comforter and a healer."

In order to uncover the exact reason, the doctor undertakes a detailed history of the patient's physical and emotional background. Only this way can the physician learn the real and exact reason why the patient at that particular time chooses to be seen by a physician.

Occasionally patients resent what they consider to be a burdensome and over-detailed review of their past illnesses.

It is an interesting consensus of opinion of many physicians that the medical interview contributes as much to the diagnosis as does the actual physical examination.

High and Low Thinking

By John Chamberlain

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. — Thorstein Veblen, the old American radical, once wrote a famous book called "The Theory of the Leisure Class." Here in Santa Barbara, far up on beautiful Eucalyptus Hill at the foundation - supported Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, educator Robert Maynard Hutchins and a group of high - level thinkers practice what has been called "the leisure of the theory class."

Bob Hutchins remains what he has always been throughout a stormy life, a first-rate thinker when it comes to problems of the American university. He still wants the student to read and think about the ideas encountered in the great books. He still makes a devastating case against the impersonality of huge education factories in which students are taught by second-rate graduate assistants who can't qualify for non-teaching fellowships. When it comes to practical political matters, such as dealing with Communist infiltration in South Vietnam, Hutchins' thinking may leave something to be desired. But on the higher levels of philosophical theory he turns his sentences with the same witty and penetrating aplomb that so astounded Dean Charles Clark of the Yale Law School when he had Bob in a class some forty years ago.

To move down Eucalyptus Hill to the waterfront area of Santa Barbara, however, one realizes that what is practical today is some good low - level thinking. Santa Barbara is currently struggling with riffraff who have drifted into the region to take the place of the banished Mexican braceros in the lemon groves. Some of the new lemon pickers are really interested in earning some money, but the influx includes a good number of so-called "winos," who, as the local crime reporters put it, work only long enough in the groves to "get bombed on cheap wine." The local Municipal Court judge has had in recent weeks to deal with three times the usual number of "wino" offenses. Meanwhile the groves around Santa Barbara and in Ventura County to the east, which supply most of the lemons consumed in the United States, can't get a good day's work out of men who turn up on Monday much the worse for a "lost weekend." Ironically, this may deprive more sophisticated drinkers of lemon twists in their cocktails.

The whole business, which threatens to make lemon-growing a losing proposition in California, is a result of poor low-level thinning in Willard Wirtz's Department of Labor in Washington, D. C. The original idea in banning the braceros was to make work for native U. S. citizens. But the Department of Labor did not bother to distinguish between problems of alcoholism and problems of involuntary unemployment in California. Nor did it reckon with the fact that many city-bred Americans are no longer able to do such rough work as lemon picking. As one man told a local Santa Barbara reporter, "I worked about two hours. It's too rough for the money." The "money" happens to be $1.25 an hour. Another man told a reporter: "I'll tell you the truth: We don't care. We'll work two-three days a ' check out to buy a bottle. The only reason we came here is for a bottle and a warm place in the sun. I feel sorry for the farmers; they're in a hell of a shape."

All of this brought back many memories. Some forty years ago I spent a year working as a fruit tramp in the Claremont Pomona region to the east of Los Angeles and in the San Joaquin Valley. For two weeks I held a job picking oranges in a Pomona grove. One day the owner came to me and said "I'm sorry, but I've got to let you go. The Mexicans say this is their work. I'd be happy to have you stay on, but if I did the Mexicans would quit. And I couldn't find enough fellows like you to get my oranges picked." The grower referred me for a job to a packing house, which was not an exclusive preserve of the Mexicans.

So it's always been the case that California farmers have had to rely on Mexican labor to get their crops in. A bit of good low-level thinning in Washington, D. C., would have reckoned with this from the start. And the farmers would not have had to beg Washington to be less dogmatic in its approach to the problem of California labor.

U.S. Bombings To Halt If Red Troops Curbed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is willing to halt its bombing attacks on North Viet Nam if Hanoi will stop sending troops and arms into South Viet Nam, State Department authorities have told a conference of private citizens meeting here the past two days.

The officials said the security and independence of South Viet Nam are not negotiable, but that if North Viet Nam will abandon its assistance to the Viet Cong guerrillas fighting in the South, the United States will cease air strikes against northern bases.

So far the Vietnamese have given no indication they are willing to deal on any such terms. The prospect, therefore, is said to be that the bombing attacks will not only continue but will hit targets progressively closer to Hanoi.

The policy conference brought together several hundred representatives of private organizations with membership in all parts of the country. Such meetings have been held periodically at the State Department for several years.

The conference this time was addressed by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other policy officials and intelligence experts.

Only Undersecretary of State George Ball spoke on the record; all the others spoke "for background," meaning that what they said could be reported but not attributed to them or specifically quoted.

Out of the meetings came these other major points about the Vietnamese war:

1. Despite fears to the contrary the crisis in Southeast Asia has so far widened the split between the Soviet Union and Red China. Some authorities in the administration and in Congress have expected that as the war expanded the Soviet Union and China might be driven closer out of a common concern for defending Communist North Viet Nam.
2. The United States needs and should have greater support from its Western European allies in carrying out its strategy of resisting Communist conquest in Southeast Asia. Ball, in his public speech to the conference, charged in effect that critics who demand that the United States make peace now on whatever terms it can get are undermining the U.S. policy of defending South Viet Nam.
3. The United States sees no opportunity for the United Nations to play an effective role in the conflict at present. If and when peace is made, the United Nations might undertake to police the settlement.
4. There are signs that the Communists may mount an offensive against Thailand, a U.S. ally in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, similar to the guerrilla war against South Viet Nam.
5. The United States does not have any plan for putting large bodies of American troops into South Viet Nam, although ground-force units could be sent in for specific purposes, just as 3,500 Marines were sent in last week to guard the big American air base at Da Nang.

PARTICIPATE IN PROGRAM — Participating in the Driver Improvement Program this week were, left to right, Colonel A. B. Cook, Ohio State Patrol Superintendent; H. Kirk Reed, of Nationwide Insurance; Patrolman R. E. Carson; Mrs. Richard Hansen; and Mrs. Ronald List, both representatives of the Farm Bureau Women's Committee.

Driver Program Is Sponsored By OSP, Farm Bureau Women

A group of men and women participating in the Driver Improvement Program sponsored by the Farm Bureau Women's Committee and the Ohio State Patrol were reminded of their many faults and errors in driving when they met Monday at the Presbyterian Church.

Many points of carelessness on the part of Ohio drivers were pointed out to the group by State Patrolman R. E. Carson.

H. Kirk Reed, of the Nationwide Insurance Co., told how various laws, both natural and civil, affect driving. He pointed out that it does no good "to be 'dead' right."

Movies were shown concerning collisions and fatalities and the value of seat belts. Also a movie on freeway driving was shown.

W. Dale Wortman, safety specialist for Nationwide Insurance pointed out the reaction time for persons to respond to emergency stopping.

The group participated in a discussion on various accidents, illustrated by Patrolman Carson, judging who was at fault and why.

Colonel Anson B. Cook, Ohio State Patrol Superintendent, and Sgt. James Pribble, new head of the Circleville post, were introduced.

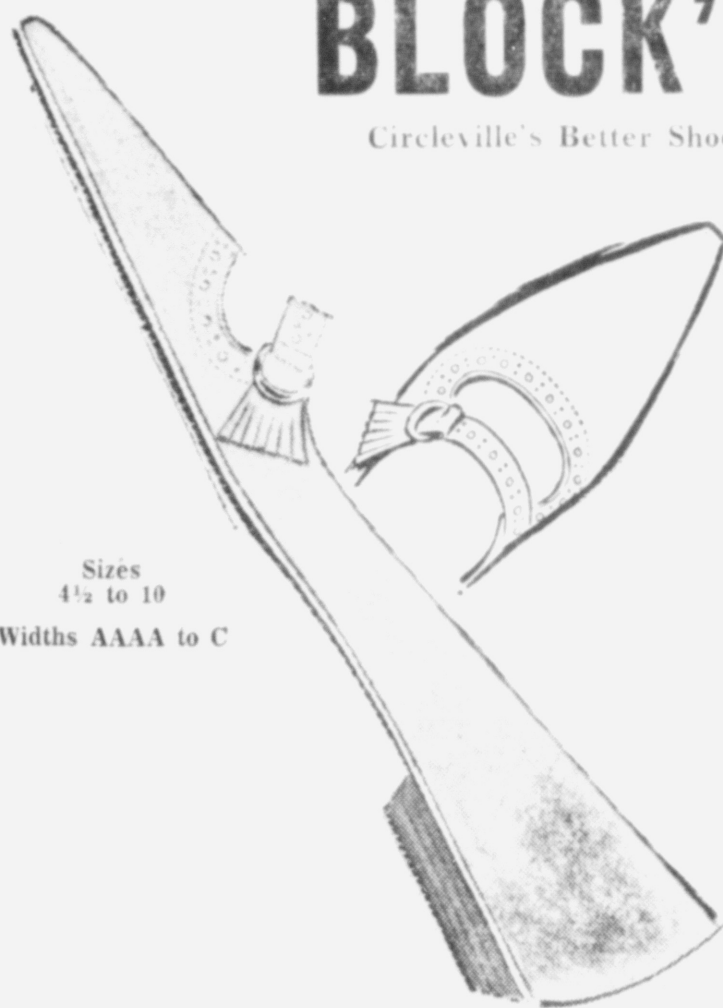

Patrolman Carson summarized the course by saying: "We would do well to drive as though every other car on the highway were a potential hazard to us."

To determine to what extent we are defensive drivers, Patrolman Carson said, each of us should answer the following questions:

"Am I a 'nib nose' — always watching what the other person is doing? Am I a 'eyebite' — not trusting what the other person might do? Am I a 'gossip' — communicating my intentions to the other person?"

Stroke Takes Life of Man In Sebring

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP)—A 73-year-old Sebring man, found on the floor in his house entangled in a telephone wire, died Thursday night in Alliance City Hospital, apparently the victim of a stroke.

His 73-year-old wife, an invalid, was reported in fair condition.

Policemen investigating reports of telephone trouble broke into the house. They found the victim, Everett Rockwell, unconsciousness beside his bed.

He apparently suffered a stroke, and knocked off the telephone receiver on a night stand as he tumbled out of bed. An uninterrupted busy signal aroused the suspicion of telephone company personnel, who notified police. It was not known immediately when he was stricken.

The wife, Grace, was in a wheel chair in another room. Authorities said she was unable to move or call for help because of her condition.

Rockwell was the father of Gene Rockwell, former Alliance radio (WFAH) Newsman and now a news director of a radio station in Van Wert.

Dems' Fractional Vote Plan Slated for Airing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Democratic proposal for "fractional" representation in the Ohio House will get a public hearing by the Rules Committee next Tuesday, House Speaker Roger Cloud, R-Logan, announced Thursday.

Under the plan sponsored by House Minority Leader A. G. Lancione, D-Belmont, and 14 other Democrats, each representative would have a vote or a fraction of a vote based on the population of this county.

The Ohio constitutional amendment resolution ran counter to a Republican-sponsored proposal on May 4 primary election ballots to group small counties into districts for representation on a nearly equal population basis.

Cloud told newsmen in a statement that the Democratic proposal "calls for a system of fractional voting which has already been found unconstitutional in a decision handed down by the New York Federal District Court on Jan. 1."

Cloud pointed out that the proposal eliminates subdistricting in large counties, "in an effort to preserve the seats of the present representatives, particularly in Cuyahoga County."

"If in effect during this session," he continued, "the vote of each of the 137 members would carry a different weight beginning with a minimum of 0.13 for the representative from Vinton County up to 1.84 for the representative from Lake County."

Under that method, he said the Richland County representative, Democrat Richard M. Christiansen, would have seven times as large a vote as the representative from Pike County, Democrat Wray Bevins who sits near him.

"This proposition would best be dubbed in data - processing system because it would require the use of a calculator every time the house voted, either on the committee level or on the floor," Cloud asserted.

Opposite Side of Coin!

DEAR ABBY: I just read "NO SALE'S" letter and I almost died laughing. She complains because all the salespeople in Baltimore "pounce" on her and offer to help her when she enters a store. But she doesn't want to be helped. So what is she doing in the store anyway?

If she really wants to be ignored, tell her to come to Philadelphia. She will have to hunt up the item she wants to buy, then go looking for a salesperson to sell it to her. And if she's lucky, she will find one whom she must beg to take her money and wrap up her purchase.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Time, timing and presidential leadership in the civil rights struggle, not only now but for a century past, will get far more scrutiny after present tensions have subsided.

This is the question involved: Why didn't presidents since the civil war provide far more leadership in obtaining full civil rights for Negroes?

President Johnson can be fairly excused from the question. In 1964, his first White House year, he fought hard and successfully for a Civil Rights Act. Now, just starting his first full term, he is pushing another. Time and timing were on his long Negro fight for justice, and an increasingly sympathetic mood in Congress and the country, laid for Johnson a solid, broadly supported foundation on which to act.

And his timing was excellent, in the sense of picking the right moment to get the most response, when this week he asked fast passage of the strongest voting bill ever offered by a president.

He picked a moment at the crest of national excitement over events in Alabama.

Why some of the other presidents in the past 100 years did little or nothing to secure justice for Negroes may be explained in various ways, probably none of them satisfactory to Negroes who had to endure a century in an American limbo. It's a dense field for sociologists and political scientists to plow.

In some, no doubt, there was a real lack of interest. It might be argued they lacked interest because there was no broad popular demand, among whites, for this kind of social and political justice.

But that in turn raises the old, obvious question: Does a leader lead or does he follow the crowd?

Negroes might have obtained their full civil rights far sooner if presidents through the years had made a much sterner pitch to arouse the national conscience. Through leadership, time and timing might have been created.

Yet, for most of the century since the Civil War the thousands of distractions, problems and grievances that affected the majority whites left them indifferent to the Negroes' plight.

Two events near the end of the last century show the indifference.

Because of popular demand, Congress in 1894 passed a graduated income tax. In 1895 the Supreme Court declared it unconstitutional. In 1896, the court said it was constitutional to segregate Negroes if they go equal treatment.

The popular interest and conscience weren't aroused by this decision making Negroes second-class citizens but it was so aroused by the income tax verdict that the nation in 1913 approved the Constitution's 16th Amendment approving the income tax and thus throwing out what the court had said.

But the nation was never interested enough in the Negroes to approve another amendment nullifying the court's verdict that Negroes could be segregated or urging other decisive action to cancel the verdict.

Nor did Congress do anything about it until after the Supreme Court itself in 1954 reversed what it did in 1896 and declared segregation by its very nature unequal and therefore unconstitutional.

Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman concerned themselves about the Negro. But the steps they took were only mild beginnings. Both presided in troubled times. Neither had broad support on civil rights. If they had fought harder for those rights, their support might have been greater.

Dwight D. Eisenhower was President in 1954 when the court banned segregation. Starting then he could have given very vigorous leadership but didn't. He even declined to say whether he approved the 1954 court decision, saying simply it was his job to enforce the ruling.

He picked up some speed later, for he sponsored the first civil rights bill passed in this century (1957) and the second, in 1960, was approved by Congress during his administration. And he used troops to back up a federal court order desegregating the Little Rock high school.

President John F. Kennedy was more vigorous than Eisenhower on civil rights, but never as all-out as Johnson. It is the Supreme Court, which left the Negroes segregated for 58 years after 1896, that has been the most persistent leader since 1954.

NEW YORK (AP) — There were, by pure coincidence, television pictures Thursday night of the Soviet cosmonaut moving in space, like a man in a dream. Later in the evening there was the ABC special "Man Invades the Sea", and the similarity between man's physical reaction to empty space and to deep ocean was impressive.

The documentary, telling of man's long effort to penetrate the huge underwater world, was even more fascinating than the usual fictional submarine yarns, even though not a single shark or octopus attacked the oceanographers.

Among the most interesting sequences were those showing Dr. Jacques-Yves Cousteau's "Diving Saucer," a strange many-windowed contraption that looks like a Martian space ship but actually dives to 1,000 feet and permits occupants to study flora and fauna at leisure. Equally interesting was the description of current efforts to translate the language of dolphins.

Substitutes for silver in coins that are being considered by authorities range from aluminum to zirconium to plastic.

phins. And so was the film showing one of them receiving her daily English lesson. Her voice was a little high, but she spoke pretty well.

It was a good hour, with a clear and concise script and excellent underwater film.

"Preview Theater," the ABC series of specials designed to take home viewers behind the theatrical scenes, has been dropped by the sponsor after two shows which received poor critical notices and unimpressive ratings. Originally four were planned.

Tonight — "Perilous Times," NBC, 8:30-9:30 (Eastern Standard Time). Bob Hope Theatre drama starring Peter Falk and Arlene Dahl: "America's Junior Miss Pageant," NBC, 10-11, finals from Mobile, Ala.

Saturday — National Invitation Tournament basketball championships, NBC, 3-5 p. m., finals between two top college teams; "Hollywood Palace," ABC, 9:30-10:30, with Robert Goulet, Carol Lawrence and Bill Dana.

Sunday — "Profiles in Courage," NBC, 6:30-7:30 p. m., a drama about attempts to impeach President Andrew Johnson.

BALANCE

It is said of a certain friend of ours that he went off the deep end.

Strange expression, that! It can mean that a person had a mental breakdown, or that he became a sort of fanatic; or it can mean simply that he got too interested in one thing to the exclusion of other important matters.

And the very fact that our generation has coined such an idiom is indicative of the fact that we see such tragedy every day.

One of the vital contributions of religion to life is its gift of balance. The knowledge of God helps a man see all else in its proper perspective.

In a day when millions are caught in turbulent crosscurrents, faith points to the true center of existence... worship steadies the mind and heart!

Dangers of Self-Righteousness

CHRIST EXPOSES THE SIN OF RELIGIOUS HYPOCRISY AND PREDICTS DOOM FOR THOSE GUILTY OF IT.

Scripture—Matthew 23, 25.

By R. H. RAMSEY

BEFORE we proceed with today's lesson, let us take time for an explanatory word regarding the often-mentioned Pharisees. They were a brotherhood, of some six or seven thousand, whose vows separated them from the heathen, the common people and the Sadducees.

Because they, and the scribes, had come into being in the times of darkness following Moses, they represented the authority of the Scriptures in home, school, synagogue, courts of law and daily life. They engaged in business and their goods were legal tender everywhere.

They openly opposed Christ because He paid no attention to their separation principles and often deliberately came into contact with uncircumcised Gentiles and the diseased. Further, He violated the Sabbath law, and did so displaying miraculous power, so that the people hailed Him as the Son of David.

Jesus admitted that the Pharisees held an official position within the permission of heaven, but He railed against their hypocrisy, they taught one thing and lived another. They made much show of their religiousness and righteousness, but were Jews, gave great reverence to the tombs of prophets and men famous for their righteousness, but when God sent prophets among them, they slew them—and were exceeding meticulous in their esteem of the mouldering bones.

Matthew 23 concludes with Christ's lament over Jerusalem. The whole city, as our Lord looks upon it, shares in the guilt of its religious leaders. Like a bird of prey hovering in the air, the enemy is threatening the inhabitants of the doomed city of David, the holy city, the place where God had put His name. Jesus, who was sheltering them under His wings as a hen her brood, withdraws, and they remain exposed, no longer under His protection, reduced thenceforth to defend and fend for themselves.

The great prophetic discourse of Matthew 24, is generally called the Olivet Discourse because Jesus took His disciples to the quiet groves of the Mount of Olives to continue His discussion of the future destruction of the city of Jerusalem.

Of course the disciples want to know when the city's fall will occur; what signs will precede actually cruel toward others.

In enumerating specific wicked deeds of the Pharisees, Christ denounces them severely. By their teachings and hypocritical practices these Jewish leaders are barring themselves and all that heed them from the Kingdom of Heaven; by their tireless missionary work they made converts more bigoted and fanatic than the scribes and Pharisees themselves. Their word was in hair-splitting as to which oaths were binding and which were not; they neglected the great virtues of justice, mercy and faith, in order to be exorbitantly strict about the minutiae.

After denouncing the deeds of the hypocritical Pharisees, Jesus turns to the corruption within the hearts from which the deeds proceed. He likens them to cups and platters, clean on the outside, but dirty on the inside; to whitened sepulchers, beautiful on the outside, but full of uncleanness.

Before concluding His discourse on the sins, or "woes," of the Pharisees, Jesus lays yet another at their feet, often called the "woe of the sepulchre builders." The Pharisees, and the

Priest Dons Boots, Jeans To Guide Cycling Youths

LONDON (AP) — Britain's ton-up boys — the leather-jacketed toughs who top 100 miles an hour on motorbikes — now have a ton-up priest to care for them.

The Rev. William Frank Shergold, Church of England vicar of Paddington Green, West London, wears denim jeans, jackboots and a helmet just like the teen-agers he serves. He rides a powerful factory-tuned machine.

Father Shergold runs a club with nearly 7,000 members — almost all of them teen-agers and about 25 per cent girls. He has married a few member couples and visited others in hospitals as they recovered from accidents. More than once he has cradled a dying boy in his arms, while police sent the traffic streaming round them.

"What really floors these boys is when one of their mates gets injured or killed," says Shergold. "Then they suddenly find they've nothing to cling to, no one to turn to, and they come to me. That's when the Church fulfills a real need."

"Our main idea is to show these lads friendship. They just aren't welcome anywhere — nobody wants them with their leather jackets and their noisy bikes. You might call what we do at St. Mary's Christianity in action — putting our religion into practice by showing real understanding, kindness and sympathy."

"And they've responded wonderfully. We've never had any real trouble. All these boys want is a good, cozy atmosphere with some music in the background, where they can have a good talk — usually about motorbikes."

Shergold has fixed up a small chapel called the Chapel of the Way in his vicarage, where the boys have their nightly meetings. On the altar is a book of remembrance with the names of members killed on the roads. Without saying anything to the priest, some of the boys recently raised money for a silver chalice for the chapel.

Shergold himself has been a motorcyclist for 14 years. He started using one to get around his parish at Hackney in East London.

There in 1959 he founded the 59 Club — a youth center with drama, football and motorcycle sections. The motorcycle section soon outgrew the whole club. The bishop of London moved Shergold to Paddington Green, a run-down, war-damaged section. There, with a smaller parish, the bishop felt Shergold would have more time for his special mission with the ton-up boys.

So far as the Church is concerned, Shergold believes that the fruit of his work will be reaped by some future vicar.

"It may be years," he said, "but when these boys have grown up and raised families of their own, they may remember St. Mary's with affection and return to us."

Yemen Has First Industrial Plant

SANAA, Yemen (AP) — The first functioning industrial plant in this country's history began operation recently, manufacturing aluminum pots and pans for Yemeni housewives.

But the historic event, in a country only now creeping into the 20th Century, was touched with drama. The owner died of natural causes before he could see his factory make history.

The only other factory in the country is a textile mill built in 1959, but never operated, and an ice plant on the Red Sea coast.

Communist China is building a textile factory near Sanaa, but it will not begin operating before 1966.

Series Continues in CHS Courtroom Drama Staging

By CHERYL BRAY

The following is the second in a series of articles dealing with the CHS Senior Class Play, "Sequel to a Verdict".

Another phase of the rapidly progressing Grossmeir trial was begun this week. Court convened Monday morning with Judge Pritchard presiding. District Attorney Warren began the cross examination with State Trooper Roults. Roults, investigating officer at the scene of the Brandage kidnapping, gave what may be considered crucial testimony.

At this point in proceedings, important facts were introduced — Roults testified that he entered the nursery at the Brandage household; found the infant's crib empty; departed and searched the surrounding vicinity to find two ladder marks on the ground with footprints leading from the ladder. A ladder was discovered 20 or 30 feet from the house. Fingerprints attempted to uncover fingerprints but were unsuccessful; footprints were not preserved. A beer stein was also found on the window sill and the ransom note leaning against it. The racy testimony of Miss Debbie Lee, the child's nursemaid, introduced new doubts into the minds of juror and spectator alike as defense Attorney Martin struck his first lethal blow.

As Mr. Adolph Nockheiser took the stand, Prosecuting Attorney Warren recovered his position although doubts and misgivings must have placed their indelible mark on the jury. Mr. Nockheiser testified that he saw the defendant, Otto Grossmeir, on the road leading to the Brandage estate on the kidnapping date, and positively identified Otto Grossmeir.

Outbursts increase daily as those fearful for the life of the defendant loose control of their emotions. Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Brundage, parents of the murdered child, have, so far been able to maintain their composure. With each new testimony, links are forged in the chain of evidence. Will doubt and odd possibility corrode the most vital links?

More clues will be presented next week.

Don't Be a Litterbug

By CAROLYN LEWIS

How many times do we read in the newspaper how some inconsiderate person or persons have damaged public property?

Did you ever stop to think there is no advantage to this and that it comes out of the taxpayers' money to fix these things? Breaking windows, cutting wires, and throwing rotten eggs or tomatoes are some of the destructive techniques used. Let us all stop to think before we go along on such acts and at least try to be considerate of other people's property.

With the coming of better weather more students will be making trips to local stores and other business places where food can be purchased. Let us remind you to eat the food where purchased and not to litter the lawns of neighboring homes and school lawns with the wrappers and papers. Throw trash in proper containers placed in many areas and keep everyone happy. Don't be a litterbug!

Store Manager Speaks to DECA

By BOB PRITCHARD

Mr. George Griebel of the local G. C. Murphy Store was a guest speaker of DECA class last Monday.

Mr. Griebel spoke of his company's trainee program for prospective store managers; touched on such points as the company's growth in the past years; and of the sales meeting or class which is held at the local store every Thursday morning.

Mr. Griebel explained to the class what his company expects of those who apply for employment in that company. He said that those students who cannot attend college should enter such a program as the one offered by the G. C. Murphy Company.

Mr. Griebel is one of several speakers who have visited the local DECA class this year to explain the operation of his store or company.

Stooge-GAA Benefit Game Held at CHS

By BOB PRITCHARD

Tuesday evening the fabulous GAA and Stooge basketball teams were warming-up for the big game of the week. The proceeds of this charity ball game went to Recreation Unlimited.

During the warm-ups big "Mr. Clean", Jim Archer, kicked a field goal from mid court. And, believe it or not, he made it. Throughout the warmups Chris Zehner walked her baby duck around the gym floor. Just before the game began the Stooge cheerleaders cleared the floor by using water pistols on everyone in sight.

The big game was on! The Stooge all stars, wearing boxing gloves, took the lead, 2-0, and then 4-0. At the end of the first quarter the score stood 12-4 in favor of Stooge. But suddenly the score was 24-16, in favor of GAA. This took place while the two team centers were about to tip the ball at the beginning of the second quarter.

The second quarter was a little slower and the only score was a single basket by the GAA. At this time the score stood at 34-16 with GAA still in the lead.

During the third quarter, both teams saw plenty of action. It was there that Jack Martin was made an honorary member of the GAA squad for the remainder of the game. The girls made only one score while the Stooge team came up to threaten the GAA lead, and the score was 44-30, still in favor of the GAA.

With one second to go in the game, GAA led, 74-68. But after that one second, the score was somehow tied up at 74-74. This was really something when you find out that no baskets were made during the last second!

At 8 p. m. the many fans were honored by a visit from Jimmy Crum, a Columbus TV sports news editor; president Ray Pons and vice president Richard McCann of Recreation Unlimited.

Jimmy Crum took the PA and explained to the fans the purposes of Recreation Unlimited. Mr. Crum announced the fund raising drive had, as of last Tuesday, passed the $2,000 mark.

Mr. Pons, the organization's president, then expressed his appreciation for the help which the GAA and Stooge have given. He also, said that both individual and club donations are welcomed.

Donations of any amount may be sent to: Sports Fund for Recreation Unlimited, Box 414, Columbus, Ohio, 43216.

Assembly Held On Shakespeare

By NANCY PICKEL

Friday morning March 12 the students of CHS took time out from their studies to take an educational trip to England.

The tour which was sponsored by the NHS consisted of scenes familiar to Shakespeare's youth, including his birthplace, school, and childhood home. As the trip progressed, students saw the land Shakespeare knew and loved, the church he was married in and home where he and his wife resided. It was very enlightening to see the castles, cafes and grounds around which he based his plays.

Although the students never left the auditorium, the movie entitled "Shakespeare, Soul of an Age," was very complete in all details of his life. It was an excellent film in the respect that it made William Shakespeare more than just a great name in literature — and author of required reading through the ages!

DON NEFF — Last week's Teacher of the Week was Don Neff, coach and eighth grade teacher. He was not available in time for deadline to have his picture snapped, so with all due respect to Mr. Neff, the Red and Black Staff thought it best to introduce him via photo this week.

Students of the Week

By PATSY GALLION

We have a pretty crop of freshman girls, and to prove this we want you to meet Ann O'Brien, "Student of the Week". She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Brien of Knollwood Village.

Ann has a brother, Jim, and two sisters, Kathy and Jane. Ann enjoys going to dances on the weekends and sleeping in on Saturdays. She dislikes homework and taking tests on Monday.

She is enrolled in the college preparatory course and plans to go to college after graduation. Ann wants to major in elementary teaching.

Chaperones were Mr. Langland, Mr. and Mrs. Sales, Mr. Barrett, Mrs. Stonerock and Mrs. Smith. Refreshments were available and sold by Mrs. Halstenberg and Mrs. Kuhn.

Around a hundred CHS students and their dates were out on the gym floor dancing to the many songs of today. When 11 p. m. rolled around guitars, drums and people were reluctant to go home.

Science Club Hears Engineer

By DANNY GIBBS

The guest speaker at the Nuclear Science Club meeting last Tuesday was Mr. Vernon Hoehne, senior aeronautical research engineer, who works at Battelle Memorial Institute.

His degrees include a BS in engineering and a BS and MS in aerodynamic engineering. Mr. Hoehne's lecture dealt with the problems of an aerodynamic engineer and how they are solved.

A great interest was shown by the club concerning this field as was indicated by the great number of questions that were asked following the guest's address.

At 11 a. m. guests returned to the auditorium, where a 25-minute question and answer period was conducted by Mr. Snouffer. Members of the panel discussing school issues and problems were Mr. Jacobs, concerning departmental affairs; Mr. Cress, associated with business affairs; Mr. Sarchet, of the administration; and Mr. Fisher of the guidance department.

Rhodes Claims Demand High For His Book

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ten and a half million may not be enough.

When Gov. James A. Rhodes ordered the printing of five million copies of the illustrated color booklet, "Wonderful World of Ohio," and five and one-half million highway maps, he expected the supply to last two years.

"The demand has been so great we don't know whether they will last out of the year," Rhodes said Thursday with obvious pleasure.

Distribution of the publications, designed to help boost Ohio tourism into the $100 million-a-year bracket, began last month. Already the governor's office has received more than 15,000 requests and the flood is mounting.

School teachers want them for their classes; parents for their children; pastors for their congregations; congressmen for their constituents, and individuals for their own pleasure. Some express hope that they will induce wandering Ohioans to return.

Chambers of commerce in other states, convention bureaus and service station touring services are among those making requests.

The American Automobile Association wants 400 to stock its offices throughout the nation.

Schools and requests from children will be taken care of first, and those of Ohioans ahead of the rest, the governor said.

The state is spending $626,000 on the booklets and $314,000 on highway maps, which statute requires printed every two years.

Critics of the Republican administration outlay term the booklet an unnecessary expense and the maps too elaborate.

But so far only two booklets have been returned to the governor. One was from a man protesting his arrest last year for violating Indian Lake boat speed limits, the other from a writer who predicted Rhodes would be a "one term" governor.

The criticism has sparked inquiries, such as the one from a man who the administration says wrote:

"When I purchased my license plates, I did not receive the book and map that Mr. Coleman (Ohio Democratic Chairman) is making such a fuss about. Since he is so concerned, they must be worth having. If your office would be so kind as to see that I receive copies, I will appreciate it very much."

Commissioners' Meetings Pegged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio House passed and sent to the Senate today a bill requiring county commissioners to hold 50 regular meetings each year.

The vote was 90-20.

Commissioners now are required to hold regular meetings in March, June, September and December.

Rep. Sam N. Hall, D-Montgomery, a co-sponsor, said the measure would provide better representation in counties.

He said that most boards of commissioners meet weekly, frequently in special sessions, sometimes daily. Hall said the proposed law would permit commissioners to hold as many special meetings as desired.

Pentagon To Probe 'Curb' On War Correspondents

WASHINGTON (AP) — An information subcommittee of the House of Representatives is investigating complaints that U.S. military authorities are imposing severe restrictions on correspondents in South Viet Nam.

"We are very concerned that the American people get maximum information in Viet Nam," the subcommittee chairman, Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., said Wednesday.

The Defense Department has promised to investigate the situation and will make a full report, a subcommittee aide reported.

Top U.S. government information officers will discuss news coverage in Viet Nam with U.S. press relations officials from Viet Nam and the Pacific Command during a two-day meeting this week in Honolulu.

Marshall Wright, State Department press officer, said in Washington that the meeting would look into news coverage of American military and other activities in the war-torn country.

Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, in reply to a newsman's questions, acknowledged some changes in announcements of air strikes against Communist North Viet Nam. But he said the department's policy was one of "complete candor with news."

Dispatches from Saigon, however, painted a picture of restrictions which are making the war there more difficult to cover than at any time since major U.S. involvement began in 1961.

While there are 15 accredited correspondents in Viet Nam, there are 60 American military and civilian officers assigned to keep tabs on the correspondents. At least as many Vietnamese press officers are similarly employed, creating a ratio of about one information officer per correspondent.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Broiler and fryer chicken often a bargain-tagged item at the meat counter, may well provide unusually good bargains in the next few weeks.

The word from the industry is that more is moving to market and that in April there'll be about 10 per cent more available than there was last year.

Some types of fish are reported in short supply, including haddock and lobster tails.

But the other major meat substitute for Lent—eggs—are still selling at low prices. Although production of eggs is tapering off a bit, the supply for April is still expected to be well above that of last April. The outlook, then, is for continued low prices.

Dried prunes are in greater than usual supply these weeks. Veal is expected to be a good buy in some sections of the nation this weekend.

The vegetables expected to be in good supply for the season include green and dry onions, cabbage, carrots, celery and lettuce.

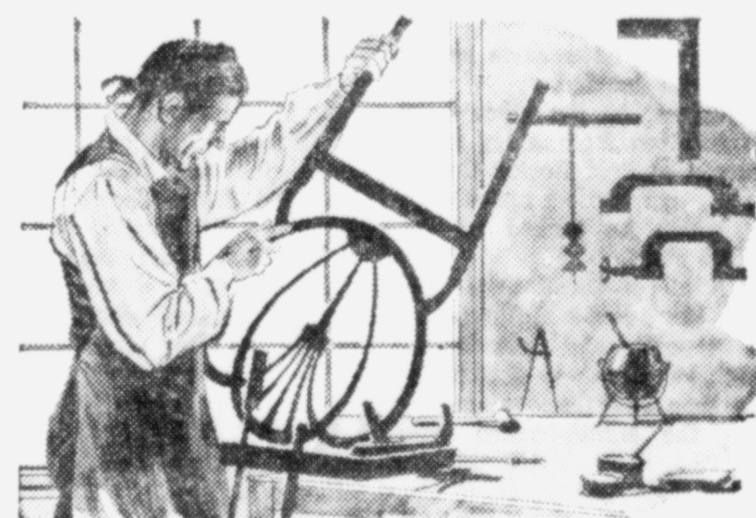

Citrus fruits continue in very good supply and apples, bananas and strawberries are said to be in good supply in many sections.

Villanova Set For St. John's

Teams To Meet In NIT Finals

NEW YORK (AP) — The team with the worst doctor's report may win the National Invitation Tournament basketball championship.

That could be the case if Bill Melchionni and Ken McIntyre carry their present conditions over to Saturday afternoon's final between top-seeded Villanova and St. John's.

Despite their various injuries and illnesses, Melchionni breezed past New York University and McIntyre sparked St. John's to a 67-60 triumph over Army in semifinal games Thursday night.

"If I was missing, I would have taken myself out," said the 6-foot Melchionni, who felt dizzy before and after the game.

In between, though, he poured in 28 points, hitting 11 of 20 tries from the field. Following the Wildcats' victory over Manhattan last Monday night, Melchionni spent part of Tuesday in the school infirmary, feeling sick and weak.

"I think I have some sort of virus," he decided. McIntyre, on the other hand, still suffered from a leg injury incurred against Boston College a week ago and an upset stomach which he picked up last Sunday night.

With all of these aches and pains, the 6-foot-3 McIntyre tallied 21 points and extended his free-throw streak to 42 straight. As soon as Villanova crushed NYU, the eighth-ranked Wildcats, 23-4, then started thinking of how they are going to stop McIntyre, who has scored 83 points in three games.

Villanova, which beat St. John's 52-43 earlier this season, will be trying for its first NIT title while St. John's, 20-8 goes after an unprecedented fourth crown. The game will be the last for St. John's Coach Jo Lapchick, who retires next month.

The consolation game will feature the same teams that played for third place last season. In that one, Army edged NYU 60-59.

Dickinson, Hunt Pace Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Little Gardner Dickinson Jr. and big Bernard Hunt got the best of bad weather and moved into the second round of the $57,500 Greater Jacksonville Open Golf Tournament with one-stroke leads.

Dickinson, a 133-pound native of Macon, Ga., and Hunt, a 200-pound British Ryder Cup veteran, survived winds that gusting to 30 miles an hour and three fierce rainstorms to card 34-34—68 Thursday.

Dickinson finished before the rain started. But the wind was worse then and he had an up-and-down round that parallels his success in tournament golf—up to a peak of $25,979 in 1963 and down to $11,495 in 1964.

"We were fortunate to start late," Hunt figured, since the wind died down some after the rain.

These surprise leaders sat on top of a tightly bunched field. Twenty-two bettered par 72 in the first round over the 6,906-yard Selva Marina Country Club with its narrow greens.

None of the big three of tournament golf could beat par; nor could the winner of the past two weeks and leading money winner this year, Doug Sanders. Sanders and Jack Nicklaus matched par 72. Arnold Palmer had 74 and Gary Player 75.

9 of Top-Rated Ohio 5s Still on Tourney Trail

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Nine of the 30 survivors in Ohio's high school basketball race are in position to make the state's sports editors appear clairvoyant.

Of the top ten teams picked by the writers and sportscasters in the final Associated Press poll back when 412 Class AA and 476 Class A teams were still in the race, five have survived in the big school class and four in the smaller division. And there's a chance eight of them could reach next week's state tournament since they are represented in all eight weekend regionals.

Youngstown Boardman, fifth in Class AA ratings, reached a 24-0 record and the regional finals at Kent with a Wednesday conquest. All the others see action in tonight's semifinals.

Only Urbana (3rd) and Dayton Chaminade (10th) are in the same meet, and if they win tonight they'll clash Saturday for the Cincinnati regional laurels. Lima Shawnee (2nd) meets Cleveland East Tech's 1958-59 champions at Toledo, and Columbus South (9th) plays Athens at Columbus.

Laurelville Joins New Athletic Loop

Laurelville High School has become a member of a new athletic conference to be known as the Vinton-Hocking League.

Herman Massie, Laurelville executive head, is the vice president of the new loop. He said today the move does not necessarily mean Laurelville will drop from the Scioto Valley Conference, of which it is now a member.

"We want to stay in the SVC for basketball and track if we can," Massie reported. "We also want to play in the Vinton-Hocking League which we feel will be a better basketball league."

At the meeting of the SVC Wednesday at Chillicothe no request was made by Laurelville to withdraw. Nor was the school asked to withdraw by league officials.

THE CONSTITUTION of the SVC requires one year's notice if a team wishes to withdraw, unless another school acceptable to the members can be brought into the conference to complete the conference athletic schedules.

Laurelville was forced to drop football this past season as a varsity sport because of a lack of interest. Massie said an attempt will be made to revive interest in the grid sport this fall. A practice schedule only would be played.

Other members of the new athletic organization are Union Furnace, Allensville, Hamden, Zaleski and Wilton.

A track and field meet for the newly formed league has been scheduled April 24.

The new loop will begin official operation with the 1965-66 basketball season.

NCAA Semifinals Slated Tonight

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — "No," said Princeton Coach Butch van Breda Kolff in answer to a question. "We haven't scouted any of the other teams. But we've played Michigan, so I guess we're fortunate to get them again."

He said it with a wry little grin and was answered with a ripple of laughter through the press conference that was grilling the coaches of the four teams competing in the NCAA national basketball championship tourney.

Van Breda Kolff's long-shot Ivy League Tigers go against the powerful Wolverines, the nation's top-ranked college power, at 10 p.m., EST, tonight in the tourney opener.

Defending champion UCLA, ranked No. 2 in the nation, plays unranked Wichita in the other half of the doubleheader at 12 midnight, EST.

The winners of tonight's games play for the title at 10 p.m., EST, Saturday, with the losers playing a preliminary game at 8 p.m., EST.

Both semifinal games are scheduled for regional television coverage. The championship game will be telecast over some 135 stations by Sports Network Inc.

Van Breda Kolff's reference to Michigan was meant to be a funny one. In a previous meeting, Princeton's Bill Bradley,

Redleg Catcher Lauded by Sisler

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Johnny Edwards may not hit as well as Milwaukee's Joe Torre, but Manager Dick Sisler thinks the young Cincinnati Reds' catcher is the best one in the league.

The Reds beat St. Louis Thursday, 4-1, as Gordy Coleman hit a three-run homer. Edwards drove in the Reds' other run and was also expected to do the Reds' catching today when they play host to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Edwards batted .281 last season to Torre's .321, and missed quite a few games because of injuries.

The Los Angeles Angels roster is so crowded that five players with major league experience are listed as non-roster men during Palm Beach, Calif., workouts. They are Don Mossi, Bob Dilliba, Julio Gotay, Joe Koppe and Felix Torres.

College Player of the Year, scored 41 points and paced the Tigers to a 12-point lead before he fouled out with 3½ minutes to go.

Michigan came on and won it 80-78 on a 20-foot jump shot by All-America Cazzie Russell with three seconds to go.

Michigan, again, is a solid favorite to win its semifinal game, as is UCLA, although UCLA Coach John Wooten had second thoughts about the matter.

"I don't believe any one of the four can be much of a favorite over the others," Wooten said.

Be that as it may, his swift Bruins are favored to take it all and become only the fifth team to win back-to-back titles.

The Bruins come in with the best record in the tourney, 26-2, and are sparked by All-America Gail Goodrich and 6-5 Keith Erickson.

Michigan is easily the biggest, strongest team in the tourney and has four returning starters from last year's team that finished No. 3 in the nation. They are 6-6 Russell, Bill Buntin and Oliver Darden, each 6-7 and about 230 pounds, and Larry Tregoning, 6-5.

Princeton, 22-5, relies to a large extent on the individual all-round brilliance of the 6-5 Bradley.

Wichita, 21-7, rallied to win the Missouri Valley Crown. The team scoring leader is 6-1 Kelly Pete. The Shockers are the smallest team in the tourney, with no starter over 6-5.

HARD LUCK GUY? - - - By Alan Maver

Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Cubs' 2nd Base Job Still Open

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Ron Santo, the Chicago Cubs' stand-out third baseman, was talking about Ken Hubbs, the slick-fielding second baseman who was killed last year in an airplane crash.

"You have no idea how his loss affected us last year," Santo said. "He was a wonderful guy, pleasant and nice to be with and his loss hurt us mentally. In a baseball sense, I couldn't even measure how much his loss cost us — maybe 10 victories or more."

Now, a year later, the same problem of finding a replacement for Hubbs presents itself at the Cubs' camp.

Jimmy Stewart, who stepped in at second base last year but hit only .253, is switching to shortstop this season because Andre Rogers has been traded.

The new second base candidate is Glenn Beckert, a 23-year-old stand-out snatched from the Boston Red Sox in the 1962 first-year draft. Beckert hit .277 at Salt Lake City last season.

The quality of the double play combination remains the big problem, but if Beckert can't make it there's Joey Amalfitano to fill in. Also a candidate is Ron Campbell, up from Salt Lake after a 273 season.

The rest of the infield forms two-thirds of possibly the hardest-hitting trio in the National League. Santo, 313, 30 homers, 114 runs batted in, is at third with Ernie Banks, 264, 23 homers, 95 RBI at first. Billy Williams, 312, 33 homers and 98 RBI, completes the slugging trio.

Since George Altman was reacquired from the New York

Mets Williams is switching from left to center field. Altman will be in left while right field is up for grabs. Len Babietson and Doug Clemens are battling for the berth.

There is one major problem in that alignment. All are left-handed hitters and there's a definite need for a righty. If any fail to reach expectations, first baseman Mack Kuykendall or John Boccabella could make the switch.

Catching is in the capable hands of Dick Bertell.

As for pitching, it is potentially one of the toughest staffs in the National League with Larry Jackson, last year's top winner in the majors with 24 victories, the No. 1 man.

Dick Ellsworth, 14-18 last season, is looking for a return to his 20-victory season of 1963. Veterans Bob Buhl, 15-14, and Lew Burdette, 9-9, showed they still can throw, and there are two youngsters who might just be ready after some major league seasoning — Cal Koonce and Sterling Slaughter.

Then add Ernie Broglio, acquired last season in the trade that sent outfielder Lou Brock to the St. Louis Cardinals. Broglio, who won 21 games in 1960 and 18 in 1962, had bone chips removed from his arm this winter and is hopeful of cracking the starting rotation.

The bullpen is a bit thin with Lindy McDaniel the only big stopper.

Still, with all that hitting from the Santo-Banks-Williams combine and a possibly strong pitching staff, the key to the Cubs chances of moving up from eighth place rest with the double-play combination.

Farmer, Sportsmen Assn. Sponsors Coonskin Cappers

The Pickaway Farmer and Sportsmen Assn. will sponsor a Coonskin Cap Brigade initiation ceremony the final day of the Pickaway County Fair, it was announced last night during a regular meeting of the group.

The Coonskin Cap Brigade is limited to boys and girls who have reached their 12th birthday but are not yet 18. The youngster must be sponsored by an adult.

Robert Wolf, the local club's representative to the League of Ohio Sportsmen, explained the Coonskin Cap Brigade is organized and dedicated to the firm belief that every boy and girl should be given the opportunity to hunt and to enjoy sport and relaxation.

Marvin Konkle, president of the Pickaway Farmer and Sportsmen Assn., announced "Davy Crockett" will be at the Fair for the initiatory ceremonies, as well as representatives of the State Department of Natural Resources.

IN OTHER business conducted, a committee was appointed to formulate rules and regulations for the proposed fishing contest to be held in Pickaway County this year.

Members of the committee are Eugene Owens, P. J. Rank, Marion DeLong and Jim Redman.

Konkle announced that a 4-H Junior Rifle Club has been formed and that he is club adviser. He asked the assistance of members who are certified

The Circle D Independent basketball team defeated Sabina, 87-85, last night in the Centralia Basketball tournament to move into the semifinals of the event.

The local team is scheduled to play at 8 p. m. today.

Cleason Thomas with 27 points and Larry Beard with 23 led the way for the local quintet. Also connecting for double figures were Phil Collins and Bob Eitel, both with 12.

The locals trailed by three points at the end of the first quarter and by four at halftime. However they fought back to move ahead, 59-57, as the final period began.

At one point in the fourth quarter they led by eight, and managed to withstand a late flurry of points by the Sabina team to win by two points.

Royals Chalk Up Win over Bullets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cincinnati Royals, who play the Philadelphia 76ers in the semifinal Eastern Division playoffs on Wednesday, defeated the Baltimore Bullets 113-110 in the only National Basketball Association game scheduled Thursday. It closed out the Royals' regular season at home.

The Royals, who open the Western Division semifinal playoffs Wednesday at St. Louis, rallied from 17 points back to tie at 109-109 with one minute left. Oscar Robertson scored what proved to be the winning basket with 32 seconds on the clock.

Cedric Tallis, former minor league general manager, is business manager for the Los Angeles Angels.

ORDINANCE NO. 2065
AN ORDINANCE PROVIDING FOR THE ISSUANCE OF NOTES FOR THE PURPOSE OF PURCHASING FIRE APPARATUS, AND DECLARING AN EMERGENCY.

WHEREAS, the fiscal officer has certified to this council that the estimated life of the property and improvements hereinafter mentioned in at least five (5) years, and the maximum maturity of notes that may be issued to purchase said fire apparatus is four (4) years;

Now therefore be it ordained by the Council of the City of Circleville, Ohio:

SECTION 1. That it is hereby declared necessary to issue a series of four (4) notes in the principal amount of $52,000.00 of the City of Circleville, in accordance with the provisions of Revised Code Sec. 305.37, for the purpose of purchasing fire apparatus for the city fire department of the City of Circleville, Ohio.

SECTION 2. That the said notes shall each be dated May 1, 1965, shall each be in the principal sum of $13,000.00, shall each bear interest at a rate not to exceed 6 per cent, and note No. 1 shall mature July 1, 1966; note No. 2 shall mature January 1, 1966; note No. 3 shall mature July 1, 1966, and note No. 4 shall mature January 1, 1967.

SECTION 3. That such notes shall be executed by the mayor and the auditor of said city and shall bear the seal of the corporation. They shall be payable at the Third National Bank of Circleville, Ohio, and shall express upon their faces the purpose for which they are issued and that they are issued pursuant to this ordinance.

SECTION 4. That the said notes shall be first offered to the officer in charge of the Bond Retirement Fund for investment in such fund, and if not taken by such fund, shall be offered to the officer in charge of the Police Relief and Pension Fund for purchase, and if said notes are not so taken they shall be offered for sale at public sale in accordance with the law providing for the sale of such notes, for not less than par and accrued interest and at the interest rate specified in the offer of the purchaser which shall not exceed the rate mentioned in Section 2 hereof. The proceeds of such sale shall be paid into the proper fund and used for the purpose for which said notes are being issued under the provisions of this ordinance. Any premium and accrued interest shall be credited to the Note Retirement Fund to be applied to the payment of principal and interest of said notes in the manner provided by law.

SECTION 5. That said notes shall be the full and final obligation of the city, and the full faith, credit, and revenue of said city are hereby pledged for the prompt payment of the same. Any excess funds over and above the par value and accrued interest resulting from the issuance of said notes shall to the extent necessary be used only for the retirement of said notes at maturity, together with interest thereon, and is hereby pledged for that purpose.

SECTION 6. That during the year or years while such notes are outstanding there shall be levied on all the taxable property in said city in addition to all other taxes, a direct tax annually in a sufficient amount to pay each of the said notes as it becomes due. Said tax shall be and is hereby ordered computed, certified, levied, and extended upon the tax duplicate and collected by the same officers in the same manner and at the same time that taxes for general purposes for each of said years are certified, extended and collected. Said tax shall be placed before and in preference to all other items levied for the full amount thereof. The funds derived from said tax levies hereby required shall be placed in a separate and distinct fund, which, together with the interest collected on the same, shall be irrevocably pledged for the payment of the principal and interest of said notes, when and as the same fall due.

SECTION 7. It is hereby determined and recited that all acts, conditions and things necessary to be done, precedent to and in the issuing of said notes in order to make them legal, valid and binding obligations of the City of Circleville, Ohio, have happened, been done and performed in regular and due form and as required by law, and that no limitation of indebtedness or taxation, either statutory or constitutional, will have been exceeded in the issuance of the said notes.

SECTION 8. That the Clerk of the Council is hereby directed to forward a certified copy of this ordinance to the county auditor.

SECTION 9. That this ordinance is hereby declared to be an emergency measure necessary for the preservation of the public peace, health, and safety of the city and its inhabitants, and for the further reason that immediate issuance and sale of the notes herein authorized is necessary to enable the city to enter into a contract for the purchase of fire apparatus at once, and thus to furnish adequate fire protection to the residents of the city, wherefore, this ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and immediately after its passage.

News of World in Brief

LONDON (AP) — Rembrandt's portrait of his son Titus was auctioned off today for $2,234,400.

The record for a single old master is $2.3 million for Rembrandt's "Aristotle contemplating the bust of Homer."

That sale was in New York in 1962. The buyer was New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The portrait of Rembrandt's son, painted about 1650, is regarded as one of the master's greatest. It was bought for the Norton Simon Foundation of Los Angeles.

It was one of five world-famous masterpieces belonging to Sir Francis and Lady Cook.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy hopes to be among the first to conquer icy Mt. Kennedy, the Canadian peak named after his slain brother.

And James W. Whittaker, who in 1963 became the first American to climb Mt. Everest, believes the New York Democrat should have the honor.

In Seattle, Whittaker said: "As climb leader, I would step aside and let Sen. Kennedy lead us onto the top."

Kennedy said Thursday he will fly to Seattle Sunday to join the expedition.

The 13,900-foot granite spire was named following the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. It is North America's highest unclimbed mountain.

OXNARD, Calif. (AP) — Consider the plight of Wendell White. The Harbor Patrol says he wasn't driving right.

White faces a probation hearing April 7 after having been convicted of driving his car too fast in Channel Island Harbor.

Patrolman William Barker said White's amphibious car had entered the water from a boat ramp and cruised along at 8 miles an hour in a 5-mile-an-hour speed zone.

But Barker couldn't catch the speedy craft. Other officers caught White on dry land.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential committee has urged an investigation of the government's $200-million search for a chemical cure for cancer.

The committee reported Thursday "that a substantial fraction of the contract work on the program was of lower scientific quality and showed evidence of inadequate central supervision."

But the committee said its own study was not thorough enough to prove the program ineffective or mismanaged.

Otherwise, a 213-page report generally praised the billion-dollar program of the National Institutes of Health.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presi-

The President's assurance came in a joint communique released following a meeting between Johnson and Walter Hallstein, president of the European Common Market.

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Associate Justice Tom C. Clark says that poorly trained lawyers cause the Supreme Court "more trouble" than it encounters in making decisions.

"Again and again we on the court have experienced the ineffectiveness of counsel, sometimes because of lack of preparation or their inability to grasp the underlying issue," he said Thursday night, Clark spoke at the Cornell University law school.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mrs. Nat (King) Cole, widow of the singer, has announced establishment of a cancer foundation in his name.

The foundation will finance construction of a nonprofit memorial hospital in Los Angeles for treatment of victims and for research into cancer. Mrs. Cole said Thursday at a news conference.

Cole died of cancer Feb. 15.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Barbara Hutton, 54, the Woolworth heiress, has started a month's visit to the Hawaiian island of Maui to recuperate from gastroenteritis, an intestinal ailment.

She left a hospital Thursday after five weeks of treatment in which she said she gained 3½ pounds. She now weighs 92 pounds.

Local Students Cast in Musical

Two Ohio University students from Circleville will appear in the cast of the musical comedy "Li'l Abner" to be presented today and tomorrow at Ohio University.

Beth Rickey, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Rickey, 822 N. Court St., will be seen as a "Dogpatcher" in the musical re-creation of the Al Capp comic strip. She is a sophomore at Ohio U.

Martha Ann Wiggins, a junior, has been cast as a member of the chorus in the musical. "Li'l Abner" is the 1965 selection being presented by the OU Fine Arts Department.

Lynda said "I think we are a very close family" and added, "I'm very proud of the way my parents have raised me."

Lynda came to the interview wearing glasses, a black wool skirt and red and white striped blouse, black knee socks and loafers.

Immediately she ran into questions about dates. Was she seeing many young men?

"If I can just keep everybody from sabotaging these young men who take the chance to go out," she started, then grinned.

and said, "I'm just dating lots of people."

Lynda said she had thought about changing schools next year, but had made no decision.

She's now a junior, majoring in history, at George Washington University here.
